Annualized FTEs – All Funds

Over the past five years, the college has significantly increased the number of “hybrid” courses, that is, courses that substitute some part of the ground instruction with online instruction. This results in fewer commute days for many students and provides a viable means for continuing instruction in the event of an emergency.