Meet San Juan Center Instructor— Dr. Barbara Fry

Dr. Barbara Fry began her association with the San Juan Center nearly 20 years ago teaching a variety of history courses including the Oregon Trail, the Lewis and Clark Expedition and the Lure of the West. A passionate historian, she truly believes appreciating history has a significant role to play in our heritage as people. This quarter Dr. Fry brings the Antarctic to our doorstep, right here in Friday Harbor. Don't worry. It's warm at the college and no special gear is required. It has been 100 years since man first reached the South Pole and while for most us the frigid wilderness may be an armchair telling, for Dr. Fry it was a destination on 10 different occasions. She served as ship's physician in both the Arctic, including the Northwest Passage, and the Antarctic. We encourage you to come along and join us as we celebrate 100 years since man stepped on the South Pole and 20 years of sharing history with Dr. Barbara Fry.

Joey Adams

Student Joey Adams has been at Skagit Valley College's San Juan Center since Fall 2009. He has a quick answer when asked where he is headed: Broadway. Joey is planning to transition in the future to Cornish College of the Arts or AMDA (American Musical and Dramatic Academy). He enjoys his academic pursuit, "persevering" math and science, and thriving in the English courses. Joey is active in local community theater including the role of "Freddie" in My Fair Lady. He participates in three San Juan Island singing groups and last spring performed solo for the San Juan Center graduates at our graduation ceremony. Joey adds a warm humor to the campus and is always receptive to debating the merits of films and the arts. "San Juan Center is a great stepping stone for students to work toward reaching their goals. The instructors encourage insights from both the intellectual and the creative mind." We'll look for his name in lights.
