

APA Documentation: Reference entries

In APA documentation, the bibliography is called References. Each entry is specifically formatted based on what type of source it is and how many authors there are. This guide provides the basic format and a model entry for the most commonly used sources in college writing that uses APA documentation.

Your formatting must match the models exactly, including commas, spaces, italics, capitals, etc. Be sure to consult a resource to tell you how to format names if there is more than one author. See our Writing Guide "APA documentation: Authors' names."

- For more support: See our Writing Guides "APA documentation: Title formats" and "APA Documentation: DOI numbers and URLs."
- For any other kind of source, consult APAstyle.org, Purdue OWL, etc.
